LAWRENCE ESTATE.

Uniontown Attorneys Go to Greene County to Present Features of Case.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 22.—This morning Judge J. C. Work and Attorneys D. J. Johnson and Edward Campbell left for Greene county in the big red automobile of George G. Gans for the purpose of presenting before Judge Ingraham certain features in the disputed estate of the late Abigail Lawrence of Greene township. Miss Lawrence died in an asylum July 22, 1906, and since that time has been waged over her estate.

Shortly before her death a paper purporting to be her last will and testament was admitted to probate and letters issued James M. and Samuel B. Newcomer. After luncheon proceedings had been started another alleged will was presented but Attorney Johnson and Campbell told the Register Recorder that he had committed no error in granting letters to the Newcomers.

The report of the executors was filed and exceptions taken. The time also being made when H. A. Cotton filed his report as auditor. To further complete matters, a separate orphan's court was established in Fayette county while the litigation was pending.

The case could not be tried by Judge Reppert or Unbel, for they had been interested in the case at different times. It was finally decided to let Judge Ingraham decide the matter. Attorney Campbell represents Messrs. Lawrence husband of Mrs. Lawrence.

LIBRARY AIDS.

Andrew Carnegie, It is Said, Will Devise New Plans for Towns and Cities.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Information reached this city last night that Andrew Carnegie today will signalize his return to America from Scotland with an announcement of far reaching significance regarding the financial support of the libraries he has presented to centers of communities throughout the country.

According to the information the steel king will announce a comprehensive plan whereby those cities and towns which are struggling under the weight of the support of Carnegie's libraries will receive material assistance. Since Mr. Carnegie has been a colossal success in his will has been a colossal success in the support of the libraries he has given.

It is positively known that Mr. Carnegie has been deeply wounded by the criticisms regarding the burden he has imposed upon towns where the maintenance of his libraries has been heavy and that by this forthcoming action he will forever end unjust criticism.

WANTS CHILDREN.

An Ohioopie Man Seeks Legal Aid to Get Them From Their Mother.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 22.—Nearly all afternoon was taken up in court litigation by a habeas corpus hearing with proceedings being heard a few weeks ago by George N. Cunningham of near Conneltsville with a view to getting the custody of his eight children now in the custody of the wife and mother at the home of Frank V. Cunningham, who lives in the mountains near Ohio.

After a long recital of the domestic difficulties in the Cunningham family, Judge Unbel announced that he would make no order at present. Arguments were also made by the counsel Woods & Cull for Cunningham and Los Smith for the wife and mother.

Mrs. Cunningham told a pathetic story of how she had been treated by her husband. She said that on several occasions she had been knocked down and kicked and even refused to send for a physician when she was sick. This however he denied and said that medical aid was always secured when he was called. It was charged that he did not provide suitable clothes and provisions for his family and that he also denied claiming that they lived on a little farm where garden truck was raised and that their grocery bill was less than $25 to $30 a month. It was shown that their children were as well dressed as any others in the community.

Cunningham did not deny that he had been in the habit of using vile and profane language before the children and was willing to admit that this was not the right sort of thing. He could not remember the circumstances of all their quarrels extending back over a 10 year period but thought the trouble was no fault of his. He admitted on one occasion and only once of slapping his wife but said it was because she came at him with a hatchet and threatened to split open his head. As to the fact that he had made threats and was the aggressor.

There are eight children in the Cunningham family, the oldest 12 years and the youngest but two months. Attorney Carr held that his client had done everything possible for the comfort and welfare of the children and that they should be given to the father except the baby which he conceded ought to go to the mother. On the other hand Attorney Smith argued that the conduct of the husband and father was not such as should come from a right kind of a parent, and that he was certain that there was no vile and profane language used in the home where the children grew, and while the advantages of education are not up to the standard of the town he thought it was otherwise in the place for the children and as to the mother he allowed the custody.

In disposing of the matter Judge Unbel took occasion to remark that in all such unfortunate cases the welfare of the children is the paramount factor of the mind of the court. As though in the mind of the court. As Judge Reppert had the papers presented to the court at the outset the matter was held under advisement until he could be consulted.

What Do You Know About the Shoe Question?

In these days of advancing prices, a shoe specialist is kept busy knowing it ALL for there are many deceptions practiced that can be detected only by the keen eye of an expert. A paper inner sole may be substituted for leather, oil cloth may be used for patent leather, light weight, inferior lining may be used and still the shoe will present a very striking appearance.

You've got but one sure way of knowing you're getting value received in a shoe purchase these days and that is, buying from an establishment that values its reputation for fair dealing above all else.

Our $5.00 Shoes

Our buyer in the selection of a $5.00 shoe, visited a store of factories that specialized on this grade of footwear. The one factory that he considered best imported 250 men from Germany that had served an apprenticeship of fourteen years making bench-made shoes. These men are placed on the fourth floor of an immense factory and never allowed to touch other than these $5.00 shoes. The result—We will show you a shoe for ladies that has a sole three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness still as pliable as a glove. This flexibility can only be attained by the employment of expert craftsmen and the use of high grade leather.

Every shoe we present is as carefully made in proportion to the price and not a shoe of any kind, man's woman's or child's can find shelf room here until it has passed the most rigid scrutiny. Our buying facilities allow us to demand many things in a shoe that small dealers cannot secure. A department store can operate a shoe department at less expense than an exclusive shoe dealer can conduct his class of store. A department store buys double the number of shoes to light by little dealers. Result—a department store buys and sells for less and demands and gets better shoes. Our shoe prices and shoes are here to prove it.
